2026
CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

Good Business & Great Results

Every year, the American Petroleum Institute (API) hosts a Pipeline Conference & Expo that brings diverse industry professional from across the globe together to share information and ideas of the latest trends, topics and insights of the oil and gas industry. And, every year API publicly solicits a Call for Abstracts attracting some of the brightest minds and leaders in the industry areas of pipeline, control room, and cybernetics segments.

Deadlines

- OCTOBER 24, 2025 – Last day for abstract submissions
- DECEMBER 19, 2025 – Planning committee communication about abstract selection to all submitters
- JANUARY 31, 2026 – Last Day for presentations and/or session content to be uploaded for committee review
- FEBRUARY 27, 2026 – Final Conference presentations from speakers. No changes beyond requests from API legal will be accepted after this date

When abstracts are submitted timely through API's system, SessionBoard, with all required fields complete and a clear value proposition for the event, the likelihood of selection into the program increases. Those selected will receive additional information on next steps through SessionBoard.
